

Intuition and Creativity Workshop

presented by

Albie Davis

Tuesday, June 24, 2008

9 am – 4 pm

Suffolk University Law School

120 Tremont Street · Boston, Massachusetts

The Program

Time for a tune-up of your mediator intuition and creativity? Mediators think on their feet and make rapid assessments of the needs of parties and the momentum of negotiations. Always on the lookout for "magical moments," mediators draw upon theory, research, ethics and personal practice and must use their five senses plus a few more not yet named. Participants will be challenged to respond in the moment by being inventive, trying new things and applying old things in new ways. Theories about mediation, negotiation, creativity, change, culture and human behavior will be explored. Be prepared for reflection, irreverence, fun, and sharing of moments of how our true creativity and intuitive natures found their way into our mediation practices. Participants will leave with a self-administered intuition check-up identifying strengths and tips for self-improvement.
